Judge Mack Urges Modesty In Claims For Congress

Jews May Return Arab Attacks

JERUSALEM (Spl.)—With the Palestine Government content to employ a defensive policy, the situation here has grown so bad following the murder of a Jewish nurse and a Jewish watchman on guard, and the serious wounding of a second Jewish nurse, that Jewish leaders are expecting the Jews to drop their praiseworthy attitude of restraint and begin a counter attack on the Arabs, precipitating a Civil War.

The two nurses, both government employees, were attacked from ambush, as was the Jewish lookout, who was on guard at Ramath Hakovesh. The nurses were slain at Jaffa.

Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope

has refused to take the offensive, despite the advice of the highest officials. Although he is determined not to yield, Sir Arthur persistently declares against employing strong measures to combat the violence. The official radio broadcasts that the "High Commissioner regrets to announce the death of Lieutenant, Sergeant, Corporal or Private So-and-so" or "the High Commissioner deplors the killing by a bomb of a whole Jewish family asleep in the Jewish quarter of Safed."

The picture at left shows Palestine's position in a possible united Arabia. Saudi Arabia is entirely independent, Syria is under French domination and Palestine, Transjordan and Iraq English hegemony.

Says Future On Men Who Lead Group

GENEVA, Switzerland (Spl.)—Adjourning on a note of modesty, the World Jewish Congress completed its labors here after having laid a framework for a permanent organization.

"It is our duty to go back and explain what we have done modestly," Judge Julian Mack, of New York, who was elected honorary president, declared, "and not to claim that we have accomplished everything but to think that we have made a real beginning."

He pointed out that the future of the Congress rested on the men who will lead it and the funds it will be able to raise to finance its various activities.

Previously the Congress adopted resolutions covering the Palestine problem, the German boycott, emigration generally, anti-Semitism, the German Jewish question, refugees, relief and Soviet Russia.

In respect to Palestine, the resolution asked England not to weaken in her determination not to curtail Jewish immigration into the Holy Land.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, moving spirit of the Congress, was named chairman of the executive committee and Nahum Goldmann, chairman of the administrative committee. Louis Lipsky was named chairman of the Council.

If Blum Fails LaRocque Goes Into Power

PARIS (Spl.)—Already realized as a foregone conclusion by the Jews of France is the ascendancy of Colonel de la Roque, leader of the Croix de Feu, and anti-Semite, to control if the government forces are defeated in Spain. As a result the daily movement of troops and shifting of advantage in the fierce Spanish Civil War is being watched closely by French Jews.

When Leon Blum was named Premier in May as head of the popular front, composed to a good extent of Jews, anti-Semitism immediately crystallized under de la Roque. Blum himself, Zionist and ardent Jew that he may be, realized the absolute necessity for divorcing himself from the Jewish question and acting solely as Frenchman and Premier of France. By avoiding pointed government action against anti-Semitism, he has skirted the danger of giving de la Roque too much workable material for propaganda. His task lies in acting as leader of the Popular Front—aimed at crushing Fascistic tendencies, aimed at preserving the French ideals of Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity and extending them to embrace the lesser worker.

The keystone of the arch lies in the hand of Blum and the Popular Front. Should they fail, de la Roque would soon swing into power. Should they succeed, Roquian Fascism might collapse, and with a return of industrial prosperity, so would the anti-Semitic movement.

STRAUS NAMED TO POST

NEW YORK (Spl.)—The appointment of Roger W. Straus of New York City, prominent Jewish leader and business man, as special assistant to Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Republican Eastern Campaign Manager, was announced by Mr. Martin today at Republican National Headquarters here.

Mr. Straus, who received the American Hebrew Medal for his work in the Inter-Faith Movement, hailed Governor Landon as a leader who appeals to the East because of his liberal thoughts and policies. He pointed out that the Kansan had been a progressive follower of Theodore Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON (Spl.)—Miss Shirley Schwartz, 18, was selected as Miss Capitol for participation in the 1936 beauty pageant at Atlantic City. Miss Schwartz was crowned Washington's representative beauty from among a score of contestants. She came to Washington from New York several years ago.

The Editor's Chair

Rosh Hashonah will be with us this year a week or so earlier than usual and this paper is already laying plans for improvement along several lines as soon as the High Holydays are over. The addition of four more pages is being seriously considered dependent, of course, on an increase in advertising. New features will be added, and several of the more popular old ones revived.

General business improvement is already beginning to reflect itself in new advertising which has been ordered beginning as soon as the warm weather is over.

A larger paper does not always indicate a better paper, but in working under our present handicap, so many important items must be omitted, that this chair's judgment is often so forced in making a close decision that the better article is many times thrown away. With more space, the same situation may yet arise, but a greater degree of freedom in selecting news could hardly be less than an improvement.

BENTWICH AT INSTITUTE

CHICAGO (NCJC) — Norman Bentwich, professor of international relations at the University of Jerusalem and one of the leading legal lights of the British Empire, has cabled his acceptance of an invitation to address the Midwest Institute of Human Relations, to be held at Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis., Aug. 30 to Sept. 4. This announcement was made by Dr. James M. Yard, executive secretary of the Chicago Round Table of Jews and Christians, under whose auspices the conference is being conducted for the purpose of discussing ways and means of eliminating religious conflict in America.

World Jewish Congress Will Never Reconvene

The World Jewish Congress has closed its sessions after a week of deliberation in the halls of the League of Nations in Geneva, and except for historical references in the Jewish world in the future it will pass into that great limbo of Jewish organizational effort which already houses a plethora of ill-conceived groups. Naturally, Congress supporters will argue against this prediction, yet no arguments can answer the futility and barrenness of the Congress sessions and its efforts.

Although many nations were represented, and although delegates travelled long distances to attend the Congress, not one new observation, result or suggestion was made, nor one constructive move passed.

Yet the Congress was held in a period of comparative peace, with no U. S. Jewish organization attempting to steal the spotlight from a publicity standpoint, and with no attempt from any of its many opponents to minimize its discussions. The New York Times daily devoted a full column to reports of the sessions, and other newspapers covered the deliberations as completely as their own local situation warranted.

Of course resolutions were passed; bodies for the perfection of a permanent World Jewish Congress organized, and heartrending speeches made, but a fair observer must admit that no real gain for the situation of World Jewry can be envisaged from either the proposed permanent organization, or from any of the many suggestions made.

It is our contention that even Rabbi Wise will hesitate to sound the tocsin for the next scheduled meeting of the World Jewish Congress. Puzzled over the mole hill it erected instead of the mountain it expected, World Jewish Congress adherents, now without the enervating spur of opposition, will gradually lose interest, forget the terrific birth convulsions of the Congress idea, and rely on existing Jewish organizations of tested merit, to facilitate the solution of the vexing situation of World Jewry.

Segal, The Meek, Changes Spots And Loses Strength

Fierce of pen, yet meek in demeanor and action, Al Segal, peer commentator of the Anglo-Jewish press, deserted his ironic darts for only one week a fortnight or so ago, and embroiled himself in a controversy from which even his prose proclivities were unable to extricate him.

Al Segal, the man who would harm no one, yet the man whose trenchant pen is the most feared in all Anglo-Jewish journalism, advocated the possibility of temporary stoppage of Jewish immigration into Palestine as a means of pacifying the Arabs.

In his own sarcastic field, where he chides the rabbis for taking vacations, the missionaries for seeking Jewish converts when they have not converted their own Christian brethren, and the rich Jew for crushing under his fine Jewish heritage in the quest for economic domination, Segal was invincible, since irony is its own excuse. But when Segal the quipster, like Proteus, changed to Segal the pacifier, he left his rear unguarded, and therein he has absorbed a terrific thrashing.

Editor and reader alike have taken Mr. Segal to task. "It is not the Jew who is at fault," Mr. Segal has been admonished, "then why should he take the blame." "Compare the present riots with the 1929 uprising," he has been told threateningly, "suppose Jewish immigration into Palestine had been halted then, as had been suggested." And so on.

To newspaper men in the Middle West, Al Segal and his column, "Cincinnati Post," is the acme of all columns. Although personally most humble, and the image of meekness, to his readers both in The Cincinnati Post, and the Anglo-Jewish press, Segal is austere, dominating and threatening. Ask any newspaperman in Ohio, Kentucky or Indiana, and Al Segal, they will tell you, is best described by the one word, "lovable."

And so the peacemaker, the timorous soul, the man who finds expression for his inhibited courage in his pen but who would not dare harm a fly, is attacked viciously in the Anglo-Jewish press where, he admits, his weekly column, "Plain Talk," is a labor of love. Al Segal, it must be conceded, erred in his reasoning when he suggested his solution for the vexing Palestinian fiots, yet this paper for one will always grant a man with Mr. Segal's ability, the right to err every once so often, as long as he continues to berate Shabbosdeckel for making more and more door knobs though he lose his soul, and teases our rabbis because "God takes a vacation" every summer.

Suggests Jews Be Deserters

Traditionally and maliciously charged with disloyalty to the lands of their birth, Jews, as is psychologically to be expected, have in practically every war, displayed a valor, and willingness to sacrifice, and a numerical strength in far greater number than their proportion to the population would warrant. If anything, Jews can be termed more loyal than "so-called" nationals. Talmudic precept urges Jews to fight for their adopted lands.

So that when Rabbi Louis I. Newman, of New York, in his column variously titled in the different Anglo-Jewish papers in which it appears, "Telling It In Gath," or "Every Tuesday," suggests that now that Italy has gained the upper hand in the Mediterranean, Jewish leaders in Palestine "have the duty to inquire whether they ought to carry forward any quiet negotiations with Italian leaders," he deserves the severest strictures for his utter betrayal of Jewish honor and loyalty.

Granted that England has not been as chivalrous as she might have been in respect to the building of a Jewish national home in Palestine, yet it cannot be disputed that of all the nations of the world, it is still a fact that Jews prefer Great Britain for the mandatory power. It may be true that Palestine would have been opened to Jewish colonization without England's intervention, but it is true, that it was England, who pledged herself to return Palestine to Jewish occupation. To desert England, when she is seemingly in a temporary eclipse in the Mediterranean area, or even to suggest that, like rats leaving a sinking ship, Jews desert to save their own "hides," is unworthy of any Jew, even unworthy of a rabbi.

Rabbi Israel Says Sea Leavening Factor

BY RABBI EDWARD I. ISRAEL

MID-ATLANTIC—It takes about forty-eight hours for the relaxing charm of the high sea to overpower you. That period is long past for us. We have given ourselves up completely to the lazy life aboard ship. It is difficult to write an editorial on world problems, even in the midst of the polyglot community of a trans-Atlantic liner. Everybody, of whatever nation, seems to get along so well. All those enmities which we feel must inevitably arise when different groups are thrown together are nowhere evident.

Shipboard is a momentarily idyllic community—a temporary international utopia. In a little swimming pool nearby, not much larger than an overgrown bathtub, American and Italian and German and French and English and Jews and Catholics and Protestants are disporting together in joviality just as though the grim clouds of war didn't hang over the world, and as though religious and racial prejudices and hates didn't exist.

There seems to be an unexpected agreement that a moratorium is declared on all arguments which would disturb the serenity of this oceanic concord.

Officially, there is only one constant reminder of the divisive nationalisms which exist behind all this momentary Nirvana. Almost every day there is some request for the showing of one's passport. This helps to make you conscious of the fact that you live in a world of sharply-drawn territorial boundaries across which you cannot pass unchallenged or unsuspected.

The latest wrinkle is the Italian request (this is an Italian boat) that your passport contain an itemized list of all monies which you are carrying. The flow of American currency into Italy is avidly welcomed. The transportation of Italian "valuta" beyond the Roman borders is jealously prevented. And Italy is not alone in this. A glib explanation by the officials tells you that the declaration of currency holdings is to assist the traveler. This is foolishness. Behind it all, of

Objects To Use Of Term,
"Dirty Jew" at Wrestling
Matches

To the Editor:

Enclosed you will find a copy of a letter addressed to Haywood Allen concerning his policy of not allowing abusive language to be used at his wrestling matches.

Please print this in your column of letters to editors

I. ARNOLD WAXMAN,
Louisville, Ky.

Allen Wrestling Club
Dear Mr. Allen:

I wish to take this opportunity of congratulating you on your new policy of not permitting any obscene language at your future wrestling matches.

However, I wish to call your attention to one fact, which I believe you overlooked last week, and that is the type of language that was used during your main event between Abe Rothberg and Young Gotch.

It was during this match that the language of "Dirty Jew" was used quite frequently.

To the Jewish race, and I believe I speak generally for them in this instance, it is much worse to have this epithet used than some of the language which you prohibit on the account of offending your women patrons.

I will agree with those present on that night that some of the tactics used by Mr. Rothberg were not very orthodox, yet we know by previous wrestling matches that these tactics are not unusual, and the fact that a Jew was one of the principles in such a tussle does not excuse the use of the above language, nor does it excuse you for permitting such language to be used.

Therefore, I believe that if you are going to enforce your policy of having your customers behave as ladies and gentlemen, and of disposing of such elements that cannot behave themselves properly, that you will include, not only those that use language that would shock the conscience of your lady patrons, but also those that use language that will shock any race or creed.

I hope that you will give this matter your attention and that such a thing will never occur again.

Yours for better and cleaner sport.

course, is the precarious Italian economic condition, the fears of collapse from currency manipulation by her enemies, and the need of bolstering up the national economic weakness by luring American dollars into the coffers of Italy.

And beyond this is the panicky group of governments hovering on the brink of financial ruin, frenziedly prepared to use war to an effort to preserve the loyalty of the masses. One drastic move of some statesman and this shipload of brotherly souls would be converted into a seething mass of chauvinistic maniacs. Such is the thin crust of peace on which we tread on the surface of a volcanic world.

Something more personal ruffles my own serenity. At our table is a German woman returning from America where she has evidently been a governess. She is a fine, cultured person. Our table talk and table relationships are most pleasant. Yet in only a few days she would not dare to speak to us should we meet her in her native city. She will shout "Heil Hitler" and observe every one of the barbarous anti-Jewish Nuremberg laws. She will support the destruction of Jewish life in Germany and through the implications of Nazi propaganda as carried on

Fete Arranged For Mortgage Burning

Ben Bartel, chairman of arrangements, announced that Rabbi Eliezer Silver will speak, while a program of Jewish music will be provided by Cantor Emil Rosen of Cincinnati. Pastor Claims Jews Too Jewish BOSTON (NCJC) — "American Jewish leaders are to blame for some of the growing anti-Semitism in Europe," according to Rev. Cyprian Adamski, O.M.C., pastor of St. Stanislaus Church, Chelsea, Mass. Father Adamski has just returned from an extensive tour of Europe.

Explaining his statement, the pastor pointed out that the Jewish leaders in America are too boisterous in their protests against persecution and pogroms in Europe, the reports of which are sometimes exaggerated. "Thus the Jews of America are exciting both the Jews and the non-Jews of Europe," he observed.

Father Adamski maintained that another reason for growing anti-Semitism throughout the world, especially in America, is that the Jews are too Jewish. As an ex-

Fight Is On For German Day Control

NEW YORK (Spl.) — A fight for control of the annual German Day celebration set for October 4 at Madison Square Garden, is now under way between organizations wishing to use the occasion to glorify the New Germany and Hitler, and more staid groups preferring a quiet commemoration of the first German settlement in America 250 years ago.

The committee in charge announced it intended to "unite German societies just as Hitler united the parties of Germany." There was no indication that German-Jewish societies would be invited.

ample he pointed out that American Jews closed their business establishments on their own holidays but kept them open on Gentile holidays. Further assimilation into the American way of living is his suggestion.

A united front on the part of world Jewry against Communism was suggested by Father Adamski as one of the instruments that would safeguard Jewry from anti-Semitism.

JOHN METAXAS

ATHENS, Greece—German educated, and Nazi sympathetic, Premier John Metaxas has already shown his preference for Germany by ordering $13,500,000 worth of arms from the Nazis. It was reported here. Metaxas' attitude toward Berlin will go a long way towards effecting Hitler's aims in the Balkans and Central Europe.

Owens Snub Irks Jews

NEW YORK (Spl.)—A resolution requesting that before the United States accepts an invitation to participate in any future Olympic Games, the American Olympic Committee should procure a pledge from the hosts that all athletes participating will be treated equally and in a sportsmanlike manner regardless of race, color or creed, was adopted by the New Jersey Department, Jewish War Veterans of the United States.

The resolution will be presented before the Jewish Veterans' 41st National Encampment at the end of this month in Pittsburgh, Abraham Kraditor, commander-in-chief, announced.

The resolution condemned "the attitude and action of the spokesmen and representatives of the German Government and the Olympic Games for their gross lack of sportsmanship and decency in affronting America's supreme colored athletes." It referred specifically to the action of Adolph Hitler in avoiding any "greeting to the numerous Americans of the colored race who were Olympic winners" and described this action as "an affront to all sport loving Americans."

Heldman Seen As Another Tilden

New Junior Champ Able

LOS ANGELES, Cal. (Spl.)—Young Julius Heldman, black-haired Jewish tennis ace of U. C. L. A., who last week annexed the National Junior Tennis title, has been developing into a star of the first calibre at an astonishing rate of speed, and it is not improbable to conceive of him as a prospective Davis Cup participant.

Heldman fairly exudes with color. Confident and good looking, he holds no delusions over the figure he cuts on the court. Dashing and cocky, Heldman is able and quick footed, and, what's more, he knows it.

The curly-haired Bruin sophomore has an opportunity to make himself another Tilden, Dizzy Dean, or Rube Waddell. He has plenty of crowd "it" and his cockiness is matched only by his ability.

School Stays Open Despite Protest

NORTH BERGEN, N. J. (Spl.)—The Talmud Torah here was allowed to operate undisturbed as the result of a ruling by Chief of Police John J. Simmer that it was not a "public nuisance" after a hearing on the petition filed by residents of the neighborhood asking removal of the school.

The public official quoted officers of the school as willing to cooperate in reducing noise as much as possible. Several Jewish residents who signed the petition claimed that the Talmud Torah students were "too fresh."

forts at goodwill. Just how much will all these goodwill activities mean in event of a crisis. Have we, for example, in America, enough real humanitarianism and true brotherhood to withstand a Hitler any better than the humanitarians in Germany withstood him?

The joy of life aboard ship is a wholesome example of "how good and beautiful it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." How long will it be before the world really learns this lesson—and practices it?

MORRIS, SALOMON IN STATUE

CHICAGO (NCJC)—Protestants, Catholics and Jews in Chicago have formed a committee called, "The Patriotic Foundation of Chicago," to erect a new unique statue of George Washington, Robert Morris and Haym Salomon, the two patriots who helped George Washington finance the American Revolution.

The statue, which will be executed by the famed Lorado Taft, will be the first ever made that does not depict Washington alone.

Melamed's Wish To Die In Palestine To Be Granted

MONTREAL (Spl.)—Day after day, as he goes about instructing his pupils, an old melamed looks forward anxiously to the arrival of his immigration visa to Palestine, a gift from King Edward VIII, so that he may conform to the old tradition of being buried in Holy Land soil, just as was his father forty-five years ago.

The Jewish Eagle of this city reported that three times a day the aged teacher recites kaddish for King Edward's father. With the passing of the years, the elderly man's desire to live in Palestine even a short while before his death becomes strong, and he wrote to the King of his wishes.

The letter informed King Edward that the writer could not conform to the regulations for obtaining a visa which required one either to be a young chaltz (pioneer) or a capitalist. His prayers for the late King were described and he asked that King Edward assist him in obtaining permission to spend his last years in Palestine.

Eight weeks later the Secretary of State wrote from London, advising that the request had been received favorably and that only formalities remained before the visa would be forwarded. Dr. J. H. Hertz, chief rabbi of the British Harold J. Reiter, Chicago executive, started the war on the offending definition. He was supported by a Congressman, a university professor and other prominent persons.

All Faiths Joined In Big Drive

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (Spl.)—A drive for 3,000 members will be launched here simultaneously with the formal dedication September 8 of the $1,200,000 building of the Young Men's and Women's Association.

One of the most complete buildings of its type in the country, the center was begun in 1929, after an interdenominational drive had resulted in a fund of $1,000,000 for its erection. It was completed in 1932, but an additional $200,000 was necessary to purchase furnishings and other equipment.

Sol Heumann, president, said Protestants, Catholics and Jews united last September to raise the $200,000 needed for completion of the building, which then had been "depression deferred" for four years.

"The aid and response of Gentiles as well as the Jews in this city in both our campaigns gave me the biggest thrill of my life," Mr. Heumann asserted. "It is impossible to word my thanks and the gratitude of our organization."

Leadership of Raymond N. Ball, chairman, and B. Emmett Finucane, treasurer of the drive, was commanded by the center executive.

New Center To Cost $30,000

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (Spl.)—Work is now under way here on a $30,000 building for the Hebrew Community Center, to be completed December 1. The building, replacing the old Hebrew Institute, will have club rooms and social and athletic facilities. I. Lewin is president of the center.

One of the greatest doctors of the Middle Ages was Isaac Israeli, who served as court physician to a number of caliphs of Egypt. He was an oculist and a dietitian. One of his books on diet, translated into Latin, became indispensable as a textbook for 600 years.
